Briefe von Jeanette Wohl an Ludwig Börne

Nachl.L.Börne BIX, Nr. _____, Bl. _____

The first part of the paper is a list of names and dates, which appears to be a record of some kind. The handwriting is very cursive and difficult to decipher. The names are written in a single column, and the dates are written in a smaller hand below them. The list continues down the page, with some names appearing to be repeated.

The second part of the paper is a series of short, numbered paragraphs or entries. Each entry begins with a number, followed by a few lines of text. The text is also written in cursive and is mostly illegible. The entries seem to be organized in a list-like fashion, possibly representing a series of observations or transactions.

The third part of the paper is a longer, more continuous block of text. It begins with a heading or title that is also illegible. The text follows in several paragraphs, continuing the cursive script. It appears to be a more detailed account or report, possibly related to the entries in the second part.

The final part of the paper consists of a few lines of text at the bottom, which may be a signature, a date, or a concluding statement. The handwriting is consistent with the rest of the document.
