

Knowledge on Zika infection

No	Question
1	A pregnant woman already infected with Zika virus can pass Zika virus to her foetus during pregnancy through placenta
2	A mother can pass Zika virus to her child through breastfeeding
3	Zika infection during pregnancy can cause foetuses to have a birth defect
4	Zika infection during pregnancy can cause foetuses to have a birth defect of the hearth called Ventricular Septal Defect (VSD)
5	Zika infection during pregnancy can cause foetuses to have a birth defect of the brain called microcephaly

Attitude towards Zika infection

No	Question
1	Do you think a pregnant woman with laboratory evidence of Zika virus infection should undergo caesarean section to prevent intra uterine infection?
2	Do you think infants born from mothers with possible Zika virus infection during pregnancy should receive a comprehensive physical examination, serological and molecular testing of the Zika virus?
3	Do you think a pregnant woman with acute Zika virus infection should be treated with antibiotics
4	Do you think a pregnant woman with acute Zika virus infection should be treated with antiviral drugs?